Changes with Schaetti in 2010

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen

The dot in our logo is back on the i again - Schaetti started with some changes into the new year 2010.

After a difficult year 2009, Schaetti could successfully part the company from its investors. These investors could not capitalize the company in a sufficient way and thus growth and expansion of all production sites would not extend.

Due to this situation, the Schaetti brothers rebought the corporation at 100 % and also took over the company management.

As a result, the Schaetti Group is now on a solid financial basement again. All subsidiaries have full order books and are therefore fully prepared to achieve innovation and growth.

In the course of this takeover, Damian Wirth left the company. For the time until we will have found a new managing director, Daniel Schaetti took over the operative management, Yves Surbeck is still working for us as managing director and chief financial manager.

Furthermore, Georg Hoss retired as planned, end of 2009. From now on, you will be served by Mr. Dietmar Siebert our responsible sales representative in your country.

This restructuring is a further mile stone in the history of the Schaetti Group and we are convinced that so the rapid development of the company is on the right way.

In the case of any question you may have on this, please do not hesitate to call us, we are looking forward to your requests.

We thank you for your assistance and your confidence in Schaetti and its team.

Best regards,

Daniel Schaetti
